TENNESSEE RIVER CONVENTION CALL

拉斯里里加斯 Tenth Annual Meeting at Shef field on November 8.

The Year Around Navigation Hoped for in the Upper Tennessee by Shippers and Rivermen.

CONGRESS SEEMS FAVORABLE

Chattanooga, Oct. 25 .- W. B Royster of this city, secretary of the Tennessee River Improvement assoclation, is issuing the formal call for the tenth annual meeting of the association, to be held at Sheffield, Ala., November 8. The call reads:

A meeting of the Tennessee River Improvement association is hereby called to be held on Thursday, the 8th day of November, 1906, at Sheffield. Alabama, the place of meeting provided at the last convention of the association. A full and strong assemblage of the association at this meeting is most urgently and is deemed most important. It has been the good fortune of the association, by its persistent and constant work in the past ten years, to accomplish great good to all the sections bordering on and close to the Tennessee river and its valley, by the assistance of the United States government to the work of improvement of the river. It is not claiming too much to finsist that this is largely to be attributed to the efforts of this association. The work has so far progressed that the assurance of continued and sufficient government aid and control is needed to establish for all time an open, navigable river of the Tennessee, at all seasons of the year, from its formation to the Mississippi. To secure this result is now practicable and actually within our reach if we show the united determination and wish of our people to work for its full accomplishment and the great advancement of our section. In a letter from Hon. William Richardson, representative in congress from the Eighth Alabama district, stress is laid upon the importance of strong action by this sociation at its coming meeting. The liberty is taken of quoting at some length his views expressed on this matter, as set forth in this: "1 am encouraged to believe that the attendance at Sheffield will be most gratifying to the friends of the Tenssee river, and that the result of the deliberation, suggestion and recommendation of the association will be of great benefit in securing a liberal appropriation during the short ession of the fifty-ninth congress. The work so efficiently performed for years past by your association in demonstrating in facts and conservative estimates, the wonderful com-meycial value that would result should the obstruction to navigation in the Tennessee river be removed has invited most favorably consideration from the rivers and harbor committee of the congress. The pres ent attitude of the Tennessee river before congress justifies me in say ing that now is a most opportune time for the association to urge the claims of this river from a conservative, common sense, business standpoint, supported by intelligent facts and statistics because the members of the rivers and harbors committee give no weight whatever to local sentiment or flight of imagination but they demand a fair presentation of facts and reasonable estimates of commercial development and benefit. But little can be added to this strong and convincing expression of his view by Judge Richardson. But thereby it should have the effect of making all the people of the Tennessee valley understand how essential is that at the very moment of final success, they should present both in numbers and earnest effort a concert of action, which could but afford help to the work of this association, and to urge upon all the members of the association, all towns and cities in the valley and dependent sections through their municipal authorities, all commercial clubs and associations in the region affected and all good citizens who desire the promotion of the welfare of their homes and districts to entering stimulate and aid in the former and crowning attempt of this body to make oir river a source of plants, prosperity and development of this wonderfully productive portion of our union, to send their delegates, attend in person and heartily join and assist in the labors of this association and in the beneficial results to be obtained from the government.
